IMBACH AND CITY ARE BOTH HONORED

The many friends of George F. Imbach in Richmond and Contra Costa county—and they are legion—are pleased over the honor that has come to him through being elected commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in this state.

It is also an honor for the City of Richmond to have one of its citizens named for the exalted position. If not mistaken, it is the first time in municipal history that the head of an organization of such importance has been selected from among our citizens and we should be proud to have the recognition accorded both him and us.

Imbach was in line for the position, but he did not get it without a contest. However, his victory was most decisive, the balloting running three to one in his favor, which in itself is an eloquent testimonial to the manner in which he has been performing the duties of senior vice commander.

In extending congratulations to the new commander I know that I am speaking with a community voice and expressing a general wish that his administration will be a success. Of that there is no doubt in the minds of his local friends; the hope of whom is that he will go forward to even higher and better things in public favor.

Fire Drill At Chemical Plant Urged By Jury

A coroner's jury last night was unable to determine the cause of a fire that inflicted fatal burns to Frank Suezras at a local chemical plant on Thursday afternoon.

The jury brought in a verdict of "Death from burns on the entire body from burning clothing, the cause of ignition of which is unknown to this jury. And we further recommend that the California Chemical Spray Company take full precautions in fire drills and that all help be thoroughly trained in the use of fire apparatus."

More than a score of witnesses of the fatal accident were heard by the jury which deliberated more than an hour before returning the verdict.

According to one story Suezras had matches in his pockets which were ignited by friction and started the chemical-soaked clothing to burning. However, some witnesses expressed belief that perhaps static electricity may have started the blaze.

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of Louis Zehring, 21, of Pinole who was killed in an automobile accident April 25. Death was due to shock, external and internal hemorrhages and a fracture of the skull.

Miss Eleanor Fiske of Oakland who was riding with Zehring, was unable to tell the jury how the accident happened.

In the death of Michael Murphy of Rodeo, the jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes.

Coroner C. L. Abbott conducted the inquests. T. J. Shea was foreman of the jury.

NEGRO TAKES FULL COUNT IN TWELFTH

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 19.—UP—Former heavyweight champion, Max Schmeling of Germany, tonight scored one of the most thundering upsets in sports history by knocking out the mighty Brown Bomber, Joe Louis, in the twelfth round after smashing the Negro to the floor two times.

Schmeling again became the world's number one heavyweight challenger as Referee Arthur Donovan tolled the full ten count over the Detroit Negro at 2:30 of the twelfth round. They were scheduled to fight 15 rounds, but Louis—winner of 27 consecutive professional fights—had suffered such a beating from the 30 year old Max that his handlers had to carry him from the ring.

60,000 PRESENT

Thus it was the mighty Joe Louis, ten to one favorite to execute the ancient battle-scarred Bulldog of the Rhine, who changed places and went to defeat instead.

More than 60,000 frenzied fans screamed and yelled as the smiling but battle-red Max finished his man in the same stadium where Max Baer stopped Schmeling in 1933.

FOURTH TOLD STORY

The knockout had been expected after the fourth round when Maxie—who in the first three sessions appeared to be in for a pasting—suddenly lashed out with his right from a backward crouch and (Continued on page 2)

Local Wife Is Divorce Seeker On Cruelty Plea

MARTINEZ, June 19—Numerous alleged acts of cruelty were cited today by Mrs. Violet Christine Goss in a suit for divorce filed against Conrad Goss through Attorney Will Roberson of Richmond.

The couple married December 16, 1935, and separated June 17, 1936, Mrs. Goss says.

She charges her husband called her names, told her to get out of the house, threatened to strike her and that on June 17 he threatened to kill her with a hammer and knife and she had to call Richmond police.

Her action also claims that there is community property consisting of a home at 42 South Thirty-eighth street, Richmond, worth $7,000 and money in the bank which she believes exceeds $5,000.

Mrs. Goss further states that her husband forcibly took a wrist watch diamond solitaire and wedding ring from her when he left.

She asks $50 monthly alimony and return of her rings and watch.

Governor Landon declined to comment on an announcement that Representative William Lemke of North Dakota would be a candidate for president on a third party ticket advocating a three billion dollar farm mortgage inflationary program. Last week he declined to comment on a report that Father Coughlin would head another third party ticket.

Neither did he have anything to say to a report that the Democratic administration was preparing an assault on him through a book entitled "Landon—The Man Nobody Knows."

The tax vote is set for 2:30 P. M. The agreement also calls for a vote at 3 P. M. on a motion to consider the Guffey coal bill, subject of a filibuster.

Although no mention was made of plans for the treasury-postoffice bill, also being filibustered, the action of House leaders in preparing passage of the ship subsidy bill apparently cleared this measure for disposal.

Abolition Of SRA Demanded By Supervisors

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—UP—Abolition of the SRA if the state turns direct relief work over to the counties, was recommended here today.

Members of the State Supervisors Association relief committee strongly urged that if the 52 counties assume direct relief work SRA must be abolished and the state must acknowledge that relief is a state financial responsibility.

Before meeting again Monday in Sacramento with Governor Frank P. Merriam it was recommended that the committee secure an opinion from State Attorney General U. S. Welch on whether the SRA can be abolished without a constitutional amendment and whether the state is obliged to continue financing relief after the present $48,000,000 appropriation is spent.

IMMUNITY FOR LIQUOR WITNESSES

OAKLAND, June 19.—UP—District Attorney Earl Warren tonight asked to trade immunity from prosecution for any evidence of State Board of Equalization irregularities which may be laid before the Alameda county grand jury in its liquor and tax situation inquiry within the next few days.

Warren's "horse trade" offer was made in a statement signed jointly by the county's chief prosecuting officer and James K. Plak, foreman of the grand jury which for several weeks has been listening to stories of alleged corruption, graft, political favoritism and fee kickbacks in equalization board operations.

PUBLIC INVITED

They invited not only the public, but employees and licensees of the board to come in under the cloak of immunity and tell what they know.

"It is not the desire of the grand jury or the district attorney's office to punish these who are merely victims of these bad conditions, even though they may have been guilty of some wrongdoing in connection with them, provided they are now willing to be on the side of the law in this investigation," the statement said.

DESIRE EVIDENCE

"It is the sincere desire of these agencies to remedy the conditions by placing the blame upon those who are responsible for them. Accordingly any other person who has had any such transactions as yet (Continued on page 8)

12 Children Are Drowned On Vacation Picnic Fete

MACHIAS, Me., June 19.—UP—Twelve school children enjoying a picnic on the first day of their summer vacation were drowned in Gardner's lake at East Machias today when a small outboard motorboat capsized.

The dead were Daniel McCurdy; Evelyn Mahan; Regman Knowles; Roland Eaton; Aaron Mahan; Boris Small; Christine Sleight; Marie Lewis; Jerome Kenny; Milton Dismore; Glen Morey and Frank Reynolds.

BODIES RECOVERED

The victims ranged in age from eight to 12 years. They were members of a party of 200 children from public schools in Lubec, 23 miles away.

At nightfall, all but the bodies of the McCurdy, Reynolds and Lewis children had been recovered.

The tragedy, worst of its kind in New England history, occurred scarcely 50 yards from shore.

17 IN BOAT

Authorities said 17 children were packed in the 13 foot craft owned and piloted by Kelly London, 60, of Lubec. It capsized as it started to cross the lake.

All the occupants were hurled into the water and, according to investigators, London swam ashore.

Heroine of the tragedy was Mrs. Stella A. Burhoe, Lubec school teacher, who was standing on shore. She dived, leaped into the lake and rescued Marion Kelly, and pulled ashore the body of Aaron Mahan.

Four children swam ashore safely. Another body was recovered by the Rev. Kenneth H. Cassens of Lubec. Others were pulled from the lake by police with grappling hooks.

SMALL BOAT

Medical Examiner O. F. Larson of Machias charged the boat was overloaded. "Anybody should be ashamed," he said, "to take anybody out in a boat like this."

The boat was described as 13 feet long, four feet wide and powered by a 16 horsepower motor. Authorities said it had been brought to the lake by London to take the children riding.

Joe Louis Knocked Out In Twelfth By Maxie In Big Upset

smashed Joe finish on the chin. Two more rights to the same spot put Joe down on his canvas in that fourth round for the first time in his professional career.

Louis never completely recovered from these triphammer smashes in the fourth. He took only one round thereafter as Maxie hammered and hammered the brown boy's face until the left side was puffed and distorted like a brown balloon. And so the end came in the twelfth, when the grim-visaged Schmeling whirled out of a clinch and smashed Joe with right and left hooks to the chin. He battered Louis—staggering on rubber legs—into a corner and smashed him on the head. They clinched and moved to mid-ring. Then Maxie landed five hard right smashes to the reeling Bomber's chin, and Joe wilted to the floor. He came down on his knees and then keeled over on his stomach, holding his head on one elbow. He was trying futilely to rise as the count went on. He had given a game show—despite two fouls called against him—but he had met a better man.

SMALL GATE

Had anyone dreamed that this fight would have developed as it did, it certainly would have drawn a $2,000,000 gate, instead of the approximate half million, that was a disappointment to the promoters. A 24-hour postponement because of rain and an anti-Nazi boycott had contributed to the small crowd.

Were it not for Schmeling's putted left eye, which he suffered in a training session last Sunday, Maxie claimed, he would have put the Bomber to sleep in the fourth round. He told reporters that hard left jabs in the first three rounds had swelled his eye so badly that he could scarcely see in the fourth—not until after his seconds had led it between rounds.

LOUIS GROGGY

Louis, the man who was believed able to name the round in which he would knock out Maxie, was so groggy and sick in his dressing room that he was unable to talk to reporters.

Schmeling won, just as his manager, Joe Jacobs had predicted, in the face of world-wide derision at his prediction.

Here is the round by round description of the fight:

BY ROUNDS

ROUND ONE

They came out slowly and sparred in midring. Louis jabbed a left to the jaw while Maxie crouched and slowly retreated. Maxie ducked as Louis rushed into close quarters. Joe worked methodically and failed to counter after taking a light left to the cheek. Schmeling came off the ropes and took both hands to the head. Louis shot a right, to the jaw and Max countered with a right to the body. Max hooked a left to the head and they exchanged light body blows before clinching along the ropes. Schmeling beat Louis to a body punch. Joe backed off as Max missed an attempt to connect to the jaw with his right. Max hobbled and crouched at one side of the ring while Louis feinted for an opening. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND TWO

Schmeling, still carrying his left shoulder high, swung and missed a hard left. Louis cuffed Max with both hands to the jaw. They sparred in midring as Joe fought methodically for an opening. Schmeling landed a hard right to the jaw after taking both hands to the head. Max ducked a right and Joe was wild with an uppercut. The German's straight left stopped Louis as the Bomber forced the pace at a faster clip. Joe pumped his left twice to the nose. The referee thought the going had sounded and by mistake started the fighters for their corners. They were quickly back sparring, but there was little action before the bell actually rang. It was

Schmeling's round by a shade.

ROUND THREE

Both continued to be wary but Schmeling seized an opening to smash a hard right to the jaw. The punch jarred Louis and the negro rallied with his first real burst of fighting. Joe drove Max to the ropes swinging both hands, but the German covered and soon was fencing again in the middle of the ring. Max gave ground steadily but blocked most of Joe's punches. Louis pumped his left a dozen times to the head without a return and crossed with a hard right to the cheek. The negro was very much on the aggressive, but finding Schmeling's defense difficult to penetrate. It was Louis' round on points.

ROUND FOUR

They came to the middle of the ring and repeated the sparring that has marked most of the bout thus far. Louis hooked a hard left to the head and Max spat blood after absorbing a right uppercut. The German was fighting cautiously but missing a few opportunities to employ his right while also protecting his chin. Joe took a hard smash to the jaw without blinking but was staggered by a hard blow to the jaw. Louis was knocked down by a hard right and got up after a short count. They slugged at a furious pace and had to be separated at the bell while the crowd stood and roared. The punch that put Louis down was a short right hand but there was no official count. It was Max's round.

ROUND FIVE

Schmeling came out with a rush and immediately fired his right hand to the Negro's jaw. Joe was staggered by a vicious smash as they fought along the ropes. The Bomber backed and tried desperately to cover. Schmeling landed twice with straight rights to the head as the Negro countered desperately with his left. The Bomber was blinking and dazed but kept punching with both hands. Max took a sharp right to the chin as Louis fought his way out of his own corner. Louis barely ducked a hard right hook and they fell into a clinch. Max fired his right hand twice as the fight raged and swung again after the gong. The Negro's handlers claimed foul but it was denied. Max's round.

ROUND SIX

Schmeling rushed from his corner and crossed a hard right to the head. They slugged at close range before the German again found his target with his right. The Negro held on desperately but appeared to have no defense for Schmeling's right hand. The Negro absorbed another smash to the cheek and backed to the ropes. Joe connected with a long right to the head as they exchanged body blows. Louis appeared completely dazed as he punched aimlessly at close quarters along the ropes. Max was playing a waiting game looking for an opening and generally connecting when he let his right hand go. Louis took a terrific overhand right to the side of the head as the bell rang. Max's round.

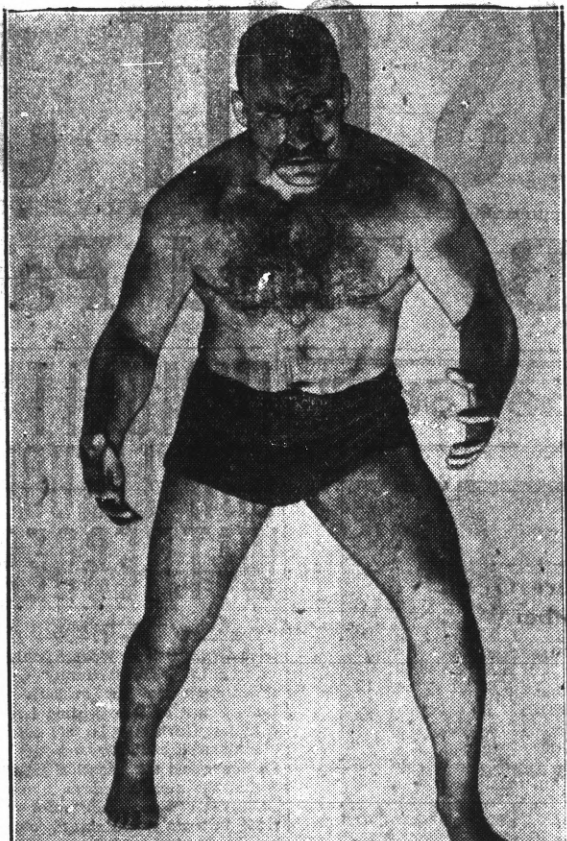

ROUND SEVEN

Louis was still blinking his left eye as he came slowly out of his corner. Schmeling, instead of rushing in, boxed carefully and feinted for an opening. Louis dug two hard lefts to the body as Max backed to the ropes. Joe picked off two of Max's right hands as he forced the German into a corner. Max crossed a hard right to the chin and complained after being hit on the belt line by Joe's left. The Negro seemed to have more snap in his blows as he drove hard to the body at close range. Max missed a right cross but ducked as Joe's right swung harmlessly around his neck. They slugged with both fists along the ropes. Louis swung a hard left to the head and looked much better at the bell. It was the Negro's round.

ROUND EIGHT

Joe looked a bit more confident as he came out of his corner, swinging a left to the body and then exchanging ed lefts to the head. Max fired a right hand to the head that jarred Joe again while the crowd let loose a terrific uproar. The Negro cuffed the German about the head but Max kept his chin well guarded. Max again connected with his right as he backed into a corner under Joe's two-fisted attack but was unhurt and quickly had Louis on the ropes. Two rights to the head and the Negro was staggered. Louis went down in one corner from a right to the chin. Joe was counted out.

Baseball Dope

Max lashed his right again to the chin and then moved quickly out of range. Max was taking no chances of being unexpectedly combated. The German rocked Louis with a beautiful right hand to the face and failed even to draw a counter punch. Louis worked his left spasmodically but there was no steam in his right hand as he tried hard to force Schmeling back. Joe was groggy at the bell. Max's round.

ROUND NINE

Louis backed away as Schmeling came two-thirds of the way across the ring to force the fight. Joe's left landed inches below the waist line. Max smashed a right to the head and forced Louis to the ropes with a two fisted attack at close range. Louis took heavy punishment, but twice countered with hard rights to the German's head. Max sparred for an opening and clinched after shooting his right to the chin. Schmeling grinned as he brushed aside Louis' uppercuts. After a sparring session in midring Max again shot his right to the head and rolled with Joe's counter punch. Joe walked slowly to his corner. Max's round.

ROUND ELEVEN

Schmeling met the Negro in midring but let Joe do the leading. They exchanged light lefts as Louis tried hard to find an opening in Max's crouching defense. The German fired a right to the jaw as they clinched, laughed as he took a right to the head. Max was bobbing and weaving in a manner that had Joe befuddled. They clinched as Joe dug a light left to the ribs. Louis kept both hands working but took a brisk cuffing around the chin before the bell. Max's round.

ROUND TWELVE

Schmeling half circled the Negro

HARVARD WINS OVER YALE IN CREW RACING

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—UP—A favored Harvard shell swept to victory over Yale late today in the annual four-mile race on the River Thames between the ancient college rivals.

Harvard won by five lengths. Harvard led all the way, holding a length lead at the three mile mark and gradually increasing it in the last mile. A quarter mile from home, the red boat lifted its beat and opened up five lengths between it and the Eli boat by the time they hit the finish line at Bartlett's Cove.

It was the first victory for Harvard since 1933 when the mighty Gerry Cassidy stroked them home ahead.

A crowd of 35,000 lined the banks of The Thames. The sun was just going down.

A large fleet of gaily decorated yachts and small craft of all descriptions was gathered near the finish line.

A mighty roar went up from the spectators and the din from whistles was terrific as Harvard went over the winner.

The race was rowed under perfect conditions. The river was calm and a slight tide favored the oarsmen as they swept upstream from the railroad bridge to Bartlett's cove.

Harvard, rowing smoothly, jumped into the lead shortly after the start and, by the two-mile mark at the submarine base had opened up a gap of one length which was held until the three mile mark where the Crimson oarsmen turned on the heat and won going away.

It increased the Yankees lead to five games over the Boston Red Sox whose contest with the St. Louis Browns was rained out.

Cleveland's Indians blasted the up and coming Washington Senators 9 to 6.

SANITY TESTS FOR SLAYER OF GIRL ORDERED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—UP—Albert Walters Jr., attempt to commit suicide by having the state hang him met interruption today when a San Francisco jurist insisted on a sanity examination before accepting the 28-year-old wanderer's plea of guilty to murder in the death of a red-headed Idaho farm girl who "teased him too much."

Walter, near-do-well son of a respected eastern family, and Deputy District Attorney John McMahon argued for acceptance of the guilty plea in an unusual courtroom procedure. Public Defender Gerald Kenny, named to represent the youth when Walter refused to retain an attorney, and Superior Judge L. T. Jacks took the other side of the argument.

Both Kenny and Walters were surly when they came into court for the youth's plea in the death of 31-year-old Blanche Cousins, Idaho Falls, Ida., hospital employee who came to the "big city" to better herself and lost her life as a result of a chance acquaintance with the first man she met.

The defender and the youth had argued the plea in Walters' cell, with Kenny failing to persuade Walter from his predetermined course—that of "getting it over as soon as possible."

"I tried to kill myself several times and couldn't," he said. "Now I'll let the state do it. It will be easier that way."

FRIENDLY FEVERS

The Nature Cure doctors of Germany were among the first to teach that fevers are beneficial and for many years they were thoroughly criticized for this theory. I can remember that in about 1925, when I wrote an article called "Fever—Our Friends," I was ridiculed by those who could not accept this viewpoint about fevers.

However, in the last few years, medical men have come to adopt the same attitude toward fever that was adopted by the naturopaths, and the late medical text-books and magazine agree that fever is of benefit. In fact, so thoroughly has the idea that fever is a friend been accepted, that fever machines have been worked out for the purpose of bringing about an artificial fever. Certainly, fevers are your friends and they occur when you need them. You should regard an acute fever as a drastic adjustment on the part of the body to the accumulated waste material of years of wrong living. When fever occurs, it must be regarded as an indication that the body is trying to heal itself, trying to free itself of morbid material by the simple process of burning it up.

Fever is essentially a defensive process—a defense measure which the body has worked out of itself to rid of poisonous material. In other words, fever is only a part of a process aimed to restore the body to normal and the fever which comes first and the return to good health which comes second, are but two steps in the same process. When you are watching an acute fever, you are watching the body make an attempt at a cure.

The cause of the acute fever is some form of systemic toxemia produced by toxins which the body has been unable sufficiently to expel. In some fevers, the toxins are of such a nature that it is necessary to expel the surplus amount through the skin, in addition to the elimination which takes place through the regular channels of excretion. In this event, the skin will react by breaking out in different types of rashes, varying with the form of toxemia present.

Once a fever has developed, the patient will be bothered by the following discomforts: the mouth has a bad taste, the lips are dry, the head aches, the cheeks are flushed and feel hot, the appetite is poor, the digestion is disturbed, and he is restless and unable to sleep soundly. In addition, he may experience a general aching of the muscles, the tongue is coated, and he feels irritable and cranky. When a fever has occurred, the first rule to observe is to go to bed. The second rule in acute fevers is this: Stop eating. The appetite is invariably poor during the first stage of a fever and he should be relied upon as evidence that the body does not need food. Here is the third rule: Drink plenty of water. Usually, the mouth of the feverish patient feels dry and water should be given to often and in such liberal amounts that the patient does not have an opportunity to complain of dryness of the mouth. The feverish patient needs water far more than he needs food. The fourth rule is to take at least one enema daily and preferably two. The fifth rule is: Use tepid sponge baths at frequent intervals to keep the patient comfortable.

This desiring an article on fevers are welcome to send for my article called CONTROLLING FEVERS. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper and enclose one large, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in stamps.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Gum-Boils)

Question: Mrs. Mary G. asks: "My little boy is troubled with gum boils. Could you give me a little information about them?"

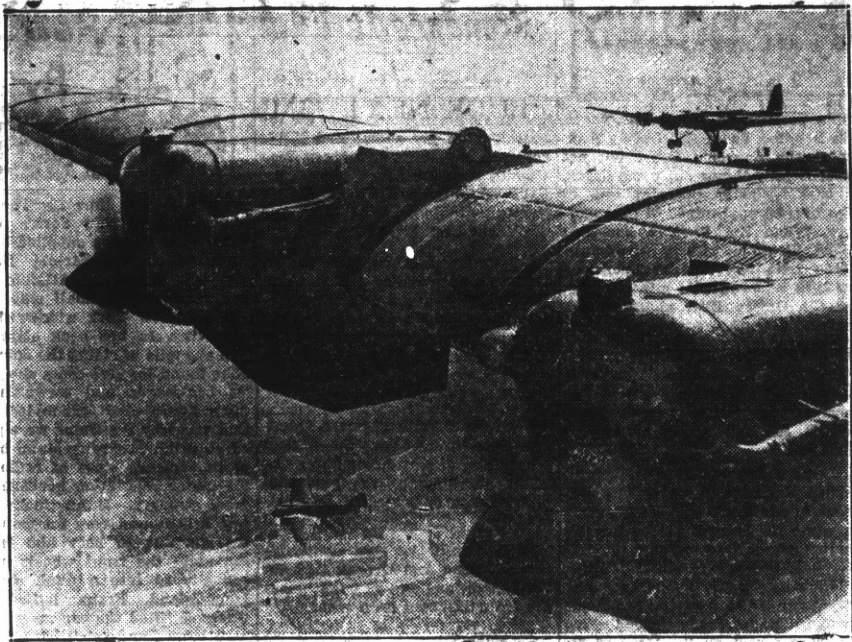

Answer: A gum boil is in the nature of an abscess, forming on the gum tissue. The boil is very painful and causes swelling and, at first, redness of the affected part. As the boil gets ready to discharge, the swelling softens. After the boil breaks and the pus is thrown out, the gum usually heals readily. The underlying cause of gum boils is a systemic toxemia and I would advise that you have your child follow a body cleansing regimen. Also have attention given to the teeth as gum boils have a tendency to form near a tooth which is decayed. In older patients, these abscesses are likely to form near the roots of dead teeth. The permanent cure of gum boils depends upon speeding up the elimination of wastes, having the patient use a sensible, well-balanced diet, and proper care of the teeth.

(Glasses)

Question: Miss Martha Y. B. writes: "I had my eyes examined and was told I need to wear glasses. Do you think glasses are really necessary?"

Answer: The best plan is for you to wear properly fitted glasses. In this way you will avoid needless eyestrain and the nervous symptoms which so often develop when eyestrain is present. In every case where an eye defect is present and especially when the patient is trying to build up better health, I believe that wearing glasses is of the greatest value and the relief which follows when the patient no longer uses unnecessary effort in using the eyes, is very often remarkable. I consider proper care of the eyes so important that I include an eye examination as a regular part of any thorough physical examination.

MERRIAM HIT BY PETITION FOR RECALL

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—UP—Charges that Governor Frank F. Merriam was controlled by monopolistic lobbyists and professional politicians, were made today in a recall petition which was filed with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan today by E. F. Pickrell, Kings county clerk.

Those leading the recall movement will be required to obtain signatures of 279,557 registered voters before the Lieutenant Governor is authorized to call a special election in the attempt to remove Merriam from office.

Charges made in the petition included the following:

"Governor Merriam's actions have been controlled by monopolistic lobbyists and professional politicians to the great detriment of the good and welfare of the citizens of California."

"He has broken faith with the citizens by plunging the state deeper and deeper into debt. He assembled lobbyists, bankers, politicians and representatives of special interests for a secret tax conference to create a new tax program to be imposed upon the citizens."

OAKLAND MAN IS EXECUTED FOR SLAYING

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, June 19.—UP—The state today took the life of Louis N. Gosden, 37, year-old Oakland plumber and an alleged "bluebeard murderer" in payment for the poison slaying of his third wife, Laura Silva Gosden, in Oakland November, 1934.

Fear of death was evident as Gosden, his glazed eyes staring at the noose, shuffled haltingly up the 13 steps leading to the green gallows platform.

Guards who helped the condemned man to the trap and caught the slack, cast, some and arm straps, averted their eyes before the signal was given to spring the trap. Warden Court Smith motioned one of the attendants to take the man. He turned momentarily at the "door" snapped open with a sharp report and Gosden fell thrice to his death, then he covered his eyes with his hands.

HILARITY BILL WILL PLEASE FOX PATRONS

"The Moon's Our Home" comes to the Fox theater tomorrow on a double bill with "Champagne Charlie."

"The Moon's Our Home" packed with hilarious farce entertainment and, at the same time, romance, surprises in that its stars, Margaret Sullivan and Henry Fonda, desert the realms of drama to become comedians. The second surprise is that, despite its madness, the picture is distinctly human.

Miss Sullivan is a temperamental lass who longs to get away from Hollywood. Fonda is a handsome writer who hates adoring women. They meet by accident, fall in love at first sight, don't recognize each other, exchange false names, appear at the same mountain resort, all more in love, and don't dare reveal their true identities.

Paul Cavanaugh, Helen Wood, Herbert Mundin, Thomas Beck, Minna Gombell, Montague Love and Noel Madison all have excellent roles in "Champagne Charlie." 20th Century-Fox's candid drama of a front-page playboy and a headline-helless.

"Under Two Flags" starring Ronald Colman, Victor McLaglen, Claudia Colbert, and Rosalind Russell, will play for the last times today at the Fox. "Don't Gamble On Love" with Ann Sothern and Bruce Cabot is also on the current program.

GO-BETWEEN

So they asked Chester Rowell, widely known San Francisco editor and close friend of Hoover's to arrange a conference.

Rowell returned in a few minutes with word that the ex-President had decided before coming to Cleveland not to meet any of the candidates. He wanted to maintain his position as a neutral.

But if Knox and Vandenberg had any ideas they wanted to convey, he would be glad to receive them through Rowell.

So, through this medium, it was proposed that a joint statement be issued the next morning, signed by Knox, Vandenberg and Hoover, and aimed to stop Landon. The statement was to be read to the convention just before John Hamilton made his speech placing Landon in nomination.

Hoover replied that he was willing to sign the statement, but he said he thought it should also have the signature of Borah as one of the leading candidates.

At this point the discussions stopped. Hoover left for New York, willing to have the statement issued if Borah were included.

But Knox and Vandenberg did not contact Borah. Probably they knew it was futile. And they were right.

For when the Senator from Idaho learned of it later, his reaction was "Why should I go out of my way to help either side?"

Rowell denies categorically that Hoover agreed to sign any "stop Landon" statement though he agrees he had conversations with Cleveland with Hoover, Knox and Vandenberg. Vandenberg when queried said he would make no comment whatever as to the convention and now all water over the dam.

And thus Landon was never stopped.

THIRTY PER CENT "GRAFT"
The Senate was considering a provision in the Relief Bill by which the Public Works Administration would be permitted to grant outright only 30 per cent of the funds for projects costing more than $400,000. The balance would have to be a loan to be repaid the Government.

During the debate, Senator Harry Moore of New Jersey received this telegram:

"Pe Work Relief Bill, 30 per cent grant inadequate. Irvington cannot participate on this basis."

The telegram was signed Percy A. Miller, Jr. Mayor of Irvington, N. J.

NOTE—In the end, the Senate amended the bill so that PWA might grant 45 per cent instead of 30 per cent outright.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, June 19—Despite the millions of words telegraphed out of Cleveland on the Stop-Landon movement, what is probably the most remarkable story about it has not yet leaked out.

It happened just after midnight following Hoover's telling tirade against the New Deal. When Hoover left the convention hall and the cheering delegates yelled for his return, Chairman Snell announced that he had taken a train for New York.

But he had not. Hoover at that time was in a hotel only three blocks away. And a remarkable conference was taking place.

Undoubtedly they would not say so now, but at that time Colonel Knox and Senator Vandenberg, though they saw, in the great ovation given Hoover a clear confirmation that the swine to Landon could be stopped.

So they asked Chester Rowell, widely known San Francisco editor and close friend of Hoover's to arrange a conference.

Rowell returned in a few minutes with word that the ex-President had decided before coming to Cleveland not to meet any of the candidates. He wanted to maintain his position as a neutral.

But if Knox and Vandenberg had any ideas they wanted to convey, he would be glad to receive them through Rowell.

So, through this medium, it was proposed that a joint statement be issued the next morning, signed by Knox, Vandenberg and Hoover, and aimed to stop Landon. The statement was to be read to the convention just before John Hamilton made his speech placing Landon in nomination.

At this point the discussions stopped. Hoover left for New York, willing to have the statement issued if Borah were included.

But Knox and Vandenberg did not contact Borah. Probably they knew it was futile. And they were right.

For when the Senator from Idaho learned of it later, his reaction was "Why should I go out of my way to help either side?"

Rowell denies categorically that Hoover agreed to sign any "stop Landon" statement though he agrees he had conversations with Cleveland with Hoover, Knox and Vandenberg. Vandenberg when queried said he would make no comment whatever as to the convention and now all water over the dam.

And thus Landon was never stopped.

THIRTY PER CENT "GRAFT"
The Senate was considering a provision in the Relief Bill by which the Public Works Administration would be permitted to grant outright only 30 per cent of the funds for projects costing more than $400,000. The balance would have to be a loan to be repaid the Government.

During the debate, Senator Harry Moore of New Jersey received this telegram:

"Pe Work Relief Bill, 30 per cent grant inadequate. Irvington cannot participate on this basis."

The telegram was signed Percy A. Miller, Jr. Mayor of Irvington, N. J.

NOTE—In the end, the Senate amended the bill so that PWA might grant 45 per cent instead of 30 per cent outright.

James Walter Carter, the man who tested the constitutionality of the Guffey Coal Bill in the Supreme Court and won, is planning to test the Guffey Substitute Coal Bill immediately.

He has hired Frederick Wood, attorney in the Guffey case, to draw up the papers for a suit on the same day the new Guffey Bill passes Congress.

The new bill gives the coal operators the right to fix prices, which in turn would put them in a favorable position to pay union wages.

In handing down the Guffey decision, the Supreme Court did not specifically throw out price-fixing.

NOTE—Carter operates one of the biggest coal mines in the country, "Olga No. Six" in southern West Virginia, with a capacity of 6,000 tons daily. Many operators with large, profitable mines opposed the Guffey Bill; about 80 per cent of them, however, were for it.

SEC REAPPOINTMENT
Robert E. Hooley, Republican member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, is on the President's list for reappointment to that job.

Long a member of the Federal Trade Commission under Republican Administrations, Hooley made a name for himself in the investigation of the Power Trust.

CONGRESSMAN BOOKKEEPER
Charles Roger Evans, ex-Congressman from Nevada, has come back to Congress. But instead of occupying a seat on the floor of the House, as he did from 1921 to 1931, he leads flocks of sightseers into the gallery.

Evans' new role is that of a Capitol guide, escorting cameratoting high-school boys and girls about the building where he once served as the sole Congressman from Nevada.

In the fourteen years between his two "terms" in the Capitol, Evans has run a copper mine, sold cars in Chicago, driven trotting and pacing horses in "the grand circuit" out West, and managed a series of gambling houses in Elko, Nevada.

He says that the job of Capitol guide is just a stepping stone to getting back to a seat in Congress. "And then," Evans concludes, "somebody else will be telling the sightseers in the gallery all about the great Congress of the United States."

Tingling Tunes Laughter And Romance In Film

If it's songs you are looking for, "Thanks A Million" has more than you can count. It's laughs, it's the season's top joy show, and it's romance and stars, how about Dick Powell, Ann Dvorak, Patsy Kelly, Paul Whitman and his band with Ramona, Rubinoff, Fred Allen and the Yacht Club Boys?

Crammed with entertainment, 20th Century's spectacular new musical film, "Thanks A Million" heads a new big double program coming to the Richmond theater tomorrow and Monday. The second feature, "The program stars Hoot Gibson and June Gale in "Rainbow's End."

"Thanks A Million" has a frivolous plot, woven about the wildest adventures of a troupe making one night stands under the masterful misdirection of comedian Fred Allen.

Dick Powell is the company's singer, and Ann Dvorak its leading dancer, and as you might guess they're wild about each other.

In some fantastic manner, Allen manages to get the troupe entangled with a bunch of wild-eyed politicians, and before they have extricated themselves, plenty happens.

But it all comes out happily in the end, with Powell, a radio star, and Miss Dvorak ready to say "I do!"

On the Richmond screen for today Ronald Colman and Joan Bennett are starred in "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," also for the first showing in Richmond Peter E. Kyne's "Gallant Defender" with Charles Starrett and Juan Perry. In addition the last chapter of "The Adventures of Rex and Rinty" and a Mickey Mouse cartoon "Mickey Plays Papa" will be shown.

A continuous performance starting at 1 o'clock and running thru to 11 p. m. will be run today and Sunday with 15 cents the price to 5 p. m.

"Somebody else will be telling the sightseers in the gallery all about the great Congress of the United States."

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, June 19—The best explanation of New York's traffic problem is the one supplied by Lis Anderson, an 11-year-old Danish girl who sailed the Atlantic with her family on a small ship and came to New York wide-eyed and observing. In her book about the trip she tells of riding the subways, she found for five cents she could go backwards and forwards for many hours—and concluded that that was why the trains were packed so full.

Frank Munro is one of the veteran stars of radio, but his major reputation concerns his great strength. Munro looks like just a little and very fat man, and it's startling to hear him tell of the night the front wheels of his car slipped into a ditch over in Long Island. Frank puffed and wheezed, lifted the car up with his bare hands, and set it back on the road again.

Sigund Romberg composes most of his music at a pipe organ in his midtown apartment. It took neighbors quite a while to realize that it wasn't a new movie house surreptitiously imported by the landlord.

And it's Jack Benny who gives me the most convincing explanation of why comedians aren't funny off stage. Benny points out that Babe Ruth never had to go bating home run at parties, and that Michelangelo never painted pictures between dinner courses.

The minister had obtained a sophisticated modern novel instead of a sober religious biography.

SWAP—John Jacob Astor, 3rd, is turning in his old steam yacht, the "Acadia," for a modern cruiser. Young Astor bought it only a few years ago, and when asked by a friend why he had picked so old-fashioned a craft, he replied that coal and steam were good enough for his father and would do for him.

Now I guess I can trade in that old bicycle of mine.

Meet Me at MIDNIGHT
RUTH LOUISE AYERS

Caroline Jay and Garret Cassidy love each other but, because Garret is a shiftless poolroom loafer, Caroline's mother was forbidden her to see him. Mrs. Jay, superintendent of the Avon Home for the Aged, wants Caroline to encourage Henry Avon, who is wealthy, to become head of the Home's board of directors. One afternoon Caroline meets Garret secretly and they get married. On the way back to town they strike and kill an old man. Pop Whistler, who has just run away from the Home, frightened, they leave him lying by the roadside. Caroline plans to go home, keep a date with Henry Avon that evening, and then meet Garret at the Chapel at the Home at midnight. Meanwhile, however, Mrs. Avon phones Mrs. Jay, inviting Caroline to her country home for a week and Mrs. Jay finds a note from Garret to Caroline asking her to meet him at the Chapel at midnight. At the same time, old Miss Penninger, one of the inmates, is dying.

CHAPTER XXI
AS THE hands of the clock struck eight, Henry Avon stepped into the hallway of the Home.

Mrs. Jay met him. "Caroline's almost ready," she said in greeting. "You know how girls are."

When Caroline came down he wide stairs, she was beautiful to see, though terror lurked behind the blue agate of her eyes.

"Hello," she said, trying to peak gaily.

She wore a violet-blue gown with a violet skirt that swirled around her. A violet velvet belt encircled her slim waist and made her dress vivid.

"Hello," Henry Avon called back. "All set?"

Caroline smiled. "Yes—all set," Mrs. Jay said. "Foolish children! Dancing on a night like this!"

Henry Avon cut in. "But Mrs. Jay—the Sky Club is open all under the sky. It will be cool here. I think Caroline should take a wrap."

Mrs. Jay agreed. "And so she should—although right now it seems impossible that she should need it."

She was secretly glad he had suggested that she have her chance to see Caroline alone for a minute and he was thoughtful—this young man who had come to sweep her daughter off her feet. She reckoned on Caroline.

"THE quietness of her apartment Mrs. Jay said "Take that black velvet coat you had this you'll never need it."

Last Word In Busses

Close-up of New Santa Fe Transportation Company motor stage. First of a fleet representing investment of $250,000.00. Outside paint job finished in crimson and cream. Seats 29 passengers. Nearly six inches more leg-room for each seat. Seats deeply cushioned with pure down. Individual chairs recline at greater degree than in present busses. Santa Fe will use this type of equipment in point to point service in California if permits are granted by State Railroad Commission.

New Santa Fe Motor Coach Examined By Large Crowd

More than 1500 persons yesterday inspected the new Santa Fe busses brought to Richmond and exhibited in front of the Elk building at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue.

From one until six o'clock in the evening a large crowd of Richmond residents viewed the latest word in motor transportation, filling through the bus, testing the soft rubber cushions and in general having a good time.

The more mechanically minded section of the male population spent a wonderful afternoon inspecting the motor and asking the driver questions about gasoline consumption, speed, power, and "what's all those dials and buttons for?"

W. B. Trull, local Santa Fe agent made the arrangements for the exhibition while W. H. McMillin and A. A. Brannan conducted the sightseers through the vehicle.

The new crimson and cream colored passenger vehicle is the first of a fleet being purchased by the Santa Fe, the entire order representing an investment of $250,000.

Through a new seating arrangement the passenger is allowed nearly six inches more leg-room for each seat. Built of light metal alloy and deeply cushioned with pure down.

Individual chairs recline to a considerably greater degree than in present busses.

This type of equipment will be placed in point to point service throughout the state if intrastate bus permits are granted the Santa Fe Transportation company by the State Railroad Commission. Applications for such service to be operated jointly with Santa Fe trains in a one-ticket travel service with fares reduced 25 per cent are pending before the commission.

Public hearings are to be scheduled by the commission in various cities of the state.

HOLLYWOOD, June 19—UP—Tom Little has discovered a practical Occidental use for Chinese pillows—they make attractive modernistic flower vases.

Little is a motion picture studio property man. He gets his name, "Cuckoo Bird," because he collects things, but, unlike a cuckoo, he says, eventually he finds use for the silly knickknacks he picks up.

Such was the case when he proudly displayed two white porcelain Chinese pillows. The skeptics nodded knowingly.

"We aren't making any Chinese bedroom scenes, Tom," a director said sympathetically.

"Who said anything about Chinese bedrooms?" Little retorted. "The Chinese say they sleep on these hard blocks, but you don't believe it, do you?"

"I've seen pictures of them," the director assured him.

"Yeah, but how'd you know they were sleeping? Now, I'm gonna put these mashed-in jars where they belong. How's this?" He stood the pillows on end and placed flowers in an opening at the other end.

"Ahhh, I get it," the director exclaimed. "Super-ultra modernistic vases, Colossal!"

So the age-old pillow's concave lines will grace an up to the minute office sequence in "To Marry With Love."

Little says insanity isn't a prime requisite for being a property man but it helps. Otherwise, he said, he might never have bought that quart of files that came in handy for a picnic scene years ago.

In his 15 years on the job he has bought $10,000,000 worth of props, including a locomotive, 30,000 pieces of furniture, cigarette lighters guaranteed not to light—there's a demand for them for comedy sequences—elephants, canaries and, a press agent added, singing cockroaches, but no one paid any attention to him.

OLD PEOPLE find way to keep breath wholesome

Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath). No wonder others consider them a nuisance.

But now Science has found that the regular use of Listerine will offset offensive mouth odors due to the fermentation of tiny bits of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plate surfaces.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Halts fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and then counteracts the odors themselves.

Try using Listerine every two or three days. See how much more wholesome it leaves your mouth. How it sweetens your breath. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

SHE LOST 20 POUNDS OF FAT

Feel full of pep and possess the slender form you crave—you can't if you listen to gossipers.

To take off excess fat go light on fatty meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets—eat more fruit and vegetables and take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning to eliminate excess waste.

Mrs. Elma Verille of Havre de Grace, Md., writes: "I took off 20 lbs.—my clothes fit me fine now."

No drastic cathartics—no constipation—but blissful daily bowel action when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen.

Overnight End COLD

Stop a cold before it stops you. Take HILL'S Cough-Syrup. Quinine stops the cold, checks the fever, opens the bowels, tones the system. HILL'S HILL'S. Red box, 30c. All druggists.

CHEST COLDS

Rub on Musterole. Used by millions for 25 years. NOT just a salve, but a "counter-irritant." All druggists. Three strengths.

Standard Oil To Explore New Oil Field In Sumatra

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—UP—The government of The Netherlands Indies has granted the Netherlands Pacific Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of California, permission to conduct geological work and other forms of exploration activity for a period of six years on the island of Sumatra. It was announced today.

Geologists will be permitted to conduct an extensive oil exploration project on an area of approximately 1,482,000 acres. The concession is situated on the east coast of Sumatra, about midway between the present oil producing region of Atjeh, at the north end of the island, and the Palembang and Djambi fields, near the south end.

Young Girl Is Shot Down By Mystery Gunman

MEDFORD, Ore., June 19.—UP—Fifteen year old Patsy Lindbergh died in an ambulance enroute to a hospital tonight from a bullet wound suffered in a still undetermined manner. State police could not find a gun in or near the house. Al W. Lindbergh, the girl's father, said there were no guns in his residence. A coroner's report said there was no evidence of a criminal attack. The girl was found on the floor of her home. The bullet had struck between her eyes.

TOWNSEND IS NUN
CHICAGO, June 19.—UP—Dr. Francis E. Townsend and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, prospective allies with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin in backing the "third party" candidacy of William Lemke, pointed tonight to their collective strength "south of the Mason-Dixon line and west of the Mississippi."

Each refused to discuss directly the Lemke announcement that he is a candidate for president.

TO BE DECIDED
Dr. Townsend, father of the old age revolving pensions plan, took the position that his organization's support of Lemke will be decided, yes or no, during its convention at Cleveland next month.

Smith, who caught the share-the-wealth torch flung down by the late Huey Long and has since been hovering on the outskirts of the Townsend plan, concurred in this but was more voluble.

"We are not discussing that," Smith said of the Lemke candidacy. "But you may say this—we will support the man that supports our program."

COUGHLIN ELEGES SUPPORT
NEW YORK, June 19.—UP—Father Charles E. Coughlin threw the strength of his National Union for Social Justice behind the candidacy of Representative William Lemke of North Dakota on a third party ticket tonight and predicted that the new "Union Party" would file for election in every state.

The radio-priest, however, made no claim of an alliance with the OAR group of Dr. F. E. Townsend, or the "Share The Wealth" movement of the late Huey P. Long. Calling on his followers to rally to the new party, Coughlin said:

BANNER OF LIBERTY
"Lemke has raised a banner of liberty for you to follow; may you carry it unsullied into the ranks of the money changers' servants now occupying the White House and the halls of Congress."

"Behind it will rally agriculture, labor, the disappointed Republicans and the outraged Democrats, the independent merchants and industrialists, and every lover of liberty who desires to eradicate the

He continued in this position until January 1, 1931 when he was also made assistant vice president while continuing his duties as general manager of refining activities. He retained these positions until retirement in December of 1933.

The statement, based on the first day of Warren's return to the investigation after leaving California's delegation at the Republican national nominating convention, was the second general invitation issued the public since the inquiry began.

LOAN IS TOLD

The new one came after the jury delved into 'tax appraisal matters, licensing practices, and testimony of loans made by board employees to one of a board member's family. James Dixon, former University of California football player, said during his employment as an enforcement agent he advanced $150 to Lucille Stewart, daughter of Fred Stewart to "help her out of a jam." The money never was repaid, although he signed a receipt for it, Dixon said.

The jury recessed until Monday when Michael Connolly, former Oakland district liquor administrator, will be heard. Stewart also is expected to appear next week.
